

BOOKS TO SUPPORT BUILDING EMPATHY

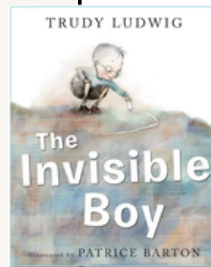

STAND IN MY SHOES BOB SORNSEN

In this story, children get practice putting themselves in others' shoes by noticing those around them. Through practice, children learn how to recognize what others may be feeling and how to offer support.

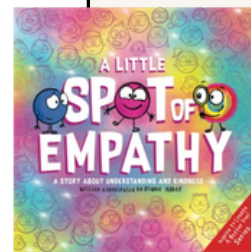

THE INVISIBLE BOY PATRICE BARTON

Brian often feels invisible at school until a new student changes everything. This story highlights the importance of inclusion and how small acts of kindness can make a big difference.

A LITTLE SPOT OF EMPATHY DIANE ALBER

This book is part of the A Little Spot series and helps children to learn empathy in a fun and simple way. Children are encouraged to practice taking the perspective of others to get better at empathy.

THE RABBIT LISTENED CORI DOERRFELD

When Taylor's block tower falls, several animals offer help in many different ways, but nothing works until the rabbit offers to listen. Children learn that empathy can simply mean listening instead of fixing.

EMPATHY IS YOUR SUPERPOWER Cori Bussolari, PsyD

This book teaches children that empathy is a strength that helps them to be more understanding of others. This superpower can help them connect with those around them in meaningful ways.
